Producing food costs the earth dearly. First of all, to grow food, we clear land which always incurs losses of native ecosystems and wildlife. Then we plant crops or graze animals on the land. The soil loses nutrients as each crop is taken from it, so fertilizer is applied. Some fertilizer runs off, polluting the waterways. Some plowed soil runs off, which clouds the waterways and interferes with the growth of aquatic plants and animals. To protect crops against weeds and pests, we apply herbicides and pesticides. These chemicals also pollute the water and, wherever the wind carries them, the air. Most herbicides and pesticides kill not only weeds and pests, but also native insects, and animals that eat those plants and insects.

55. The main point made in the passage is that ----.
A) we damage land in various ways in our efforts to grow crops for food
B) it is possible to grow plenty of food without using any fertilizers
C) the pollution caused by herbicides and pesticides can easily be overcome
D) aquatic plants and animals are the ones that suffer most from the use of chemicals
E) ecosystems worldwide are being seriously threatened with extinction

56. The author points out in the passage that the chemicals we use to grow food ----.
A) do not as a general rule pollute either the water or the air
B) ultimately cause serious soil loss
C) are the same type of chemicals as herbicides and pesticides
D) also support the wildlife in the region
E) are both beneficial and harmful

57. It is pointed out in the passage that fertilizers are used ----.
A) only when the crops are overgrown by weeds
B) since they help to restore ecosystems
C) because they have almost no ill effect upon the environment
D) to replace the nutrients that crops have taken out of the soil
E) to protect crops from pests

C) a remarkable variety of books became available in England
D) England’s population nearly doubled
E) the number of literate people remained the same
Narrowly defined, fitness refers to the characteristics that enable the body to perform physical activity. These characteristics include flexibility of the joints, strength and endurance of the muscles, including the heart muscle, and a healthy body composition. A broader definition of fitness is the ability to meet routine physical demands with enough reserve energy to rise to a sudden challenge. This definition shows how fitness relates to everyday life. Ordinary tasks such as carrying heavy suitcases, opening a stuck window, or climbing four flights of stairs, which might strain an unfit person, are easy for a fit person. Still another definition is the body’s ability to withstand stress, meaning both physical and psychological stresses. These definitions do not contradict each other; all three describe the same wonderful condition of the body.

61. According to the passage, for people who are not fit, ----.

A) psychological depression is more or less inevitable
B) the carrying out of various apparently ordinary tasks can be rather difficult
C) the first thing to consider is a better diet
D) recommendations on how to achieve fitness invariably have no appeal
E) exercise is tiring and should be avoided

62. In the passage the writer ----.

A) points out that everyday life presents many challenges that even the very fit cannot cope with
B) attaches more importance to physical flexibility than to physical endurance
C) gives three definitions of fitness that do not conflict with each other
D) suggests that people routinely perform various tasks to maintain their fitness
E) claims that physical fitness can easily be maintained

63. The idea of fitness put forward in the passage ----.

A) seems rather outdated and controversial
B) is complicated and contradictory
C) seems to ignore the ability to withstand stress
D) relates more to the sports enthusiasts than to ordinary people
E) includes not only physical fitness, but also the psychological one
I will never forget my first visit to Lascaux. It was a terribly hot July day in 1949, and I was 11 years old. My parents had decided to show me this prehistoric painted cave that had been discovered nine years earlier, and about which there was still so much talk. A newly built road let to the cave near Montignac in southwest France, and there we found a country fair atmosphere. There were buses, hundreds of visitors and people selling ice cream and postcards. There were long lines to buy tickets, long lines to enter the cave. I recall the smell of the pine trees and how many visitors suffered from the heat. After a long wait my parents and I passed through a monumental bronze door and into the semidarkness. We went down the stairs into the large chamber called the Hall of the Bulls, which was 17 meters long, 7 meters wide and 6 meters high. The guide’s flashlight lit the walls. Suddenly all around was a great parade of animals: the big bulls, the black horses, and red and black deer.

64. One point made by the narrator in this passage is that ----.
   A) despite its fame the cave itself was rather disappointing
   B) he was well-informed about the cave before he visited it
   C) the cave was in a remote part of France, and difficult to get to
   D) a lot of time passed before the narrator and his parents could get into the cave
   E) one could explore the cave easily on one’s own

65. The cave which the narrator describes in the passage ----.
   A) had not yet become a tourist attraction
   B) was largely visited by local people
   C) presents a vivid picture of what life was like in prehistoric times
   D) had been open to the public for several decades
   E) contained a great many wall paintings dating back to very ancient times

66. It is understood from the passage that the visit to the cave ----.
   A) was originally the narrator’s own idea
   B) was arranged for the narrator by his parents
   C) was not very enjoyable for the narrator as he felt frightened when he was in the cave
   D) turned out to be a great disappointment
   E) took place on a delightfully fresh warm summer’s day
67. This passage describes a scene at a public library early one morning, and ----.

B) stresses the problems of public libraries and how to overcome them
C) is full of details about the people there
D) could be part of a political speech on the lives of working people
E) all the people described have the same interests

68. We understand from the passage that the job advertisements in the newspapers ----.

A) interested the women far more than the men
B) were the main attraction for men and women alike
C) attracted fewer readers than did the horse-racing columns
D) soon became the topic of friendly conversations among the readers
E) invariably failed to meet the expectations of the readers

69. It is clear from the passage that people came to the library early in the morning in order to ----.

A) read a newspaper before going to work
B) find out primarily, about the horse-racing results
C) get a warm place in which to shelter
D) meet their friends and do a bit of reading
E) get information about things that interested them
The tension between financial growth and social instability in 19th-century Victorian England influenced its literature. Prosperity brought a great number of new readers, with money to spend on books and periodicals. In this period, when few people went to the theatre or concerts, literature functioned as a primary source of entertainment. Writers had available an audience eager to read and willing to pay. In addition, writers were respected more than at any time in English literary history. The masses knew and loved the works of the most famous, while the wealthy sought their friendship. Major Victorian writers had the attention of political and social leaders, and when they spoke, they were listened to.

70. It is pointed out in the passage that, in Victorian England, ----.
   A) it was the masses, rather than the wealthy, who were hit hard by the economic decline
   B) theatres were popular places of entertainment and attracted large audiences
   C) politicians virtually ignored the opinions expressed by the writers of the period
   D) reading was a popular pastime for everyone
   E) there was a remarkable degree of social harmony between the classes

71. It is clear from the passage that, in the Victorian age, leading writers ----.
   A) mainly concerned themselves with the problems of the masses
   B) were much respected by politicians and could influence them
   C) often made a career for themselves in politics as they grew older
   D) aimed to entertain rather than to instruct and guide
   E) were eager to make theatre-going more popular

72. We understand from the passage that Victorian literature ----.
   A) was affected by the economic and social issues of the age
   B) was primarily written about and for the wealthy
   C) deliberately avoided political and social issues
   D) is not generally regarded as a significant part of English literary history
   E) has never been of much interest to the masses
When Toy Story I was released in 1995, it became an international sensation. It was the first feature film to be entirely constructed from computer animation and its considerable technical achievements were the result of four years of hard work by a large team of computer animators. The results have been greatly appreciated. The question now is: will Toy Story II continue to impress? Judging by the enthusiastic reception at a recent press screening from an audience made up largely of adults, the answer is a definite “yes”. “The movies that I’m most affected by are the ones that make me laugh hysterically but also have an effect on my emotions”, says the film’s director John Lasseter. Toy Story II does just that.

73. We learn from the passage that Toy Story I ----.
A) was so amusing that many people wanted to see it again and again
B) appealed more to adults than it did to children
C) received poor reviews from the press when it was first screened for journalists
D) has been surpassed by Toy Story II in every respect
E) was greatly admired throughout the world when it first came out

74. We understand from the passage that the kind of films that please John Lasseter most ----.
A) are the ones that are the result of the joint efforts of many people working under pressure
B) are the ones with a large proportion of computer animation
C) are the ones that are both extremely funny and also appeal to the feelings
D) deal with sad events that leave people feeling upset
E) are films about children and for children

75. It is clear from the passage that the making of Toy Story I ----.
A) brought great fame to director John Lasseter, though he didn’t actually deserve it
B) involved a great many people and called for a lot of effort and collaboration
C) was a costly production, and this upset the director
D) included both computer animation and live acting
E) was so tiring that Lasseter was reluctant to start work on Toy Story II
76. One of them must be lying, and I suspect it’s Emma.
